

Abstract of the Disclosure

A smart card having a display is provided. The card is capable of storing application programs and displaying symbols or logos of the stored application programs to allow a user to 5 view which applications are currently available in the smart card.